I HEARTILY thank you for your kind Congratulations on my Arrival and Appointment to this Government.

ANSWER.

GENTLEMEN,

I THANK you for your affectionate Addreſs. You are perfectly right, in thinking that I can ſet a juſt Value on the Church to which I belong, without loſing a proper Regard for every other religious Society.

As a Member of the Church of England, therefore, you may be aſſured, I ſhall always rejoice in every Opportunity of promoting the Proſperity of that Branch of it, which is under your particular Care.

Senſible of the invaluable Privileges, civil as well as religious, which the Members of our Communion have ever enjoyed under the Protection of your worthy Family, we behold, with the higheſt Satisfaction, the Reins of Government ſtill ſubject to their Diſpoſal, and by them moſt prudently and affectionately committed to your Hands.

His HONOUR's ANSWER.

GENTLEMEN,

THE Affection expreſſed in your Addreſs, cannot but make it very agreeable to me; and the Lutheran Churches, who make ſo large a Part of the Inhabitants of this Province, will always find me ready to protect and ſerve them, on every Occaſion in which my Aſſiſtance may be wanted.

By the CHALKLEY, Captain MONTGOMERY, in a short passage from Bristol, we have the following Advices!
From the HIBERNIAN JOURNAL of July 29.

LONDON, July 18, 1771.

To his Excellency George, Lord Viscount Townsend, Lord Lieutenant General, and General Governor of IRELAND.

My LORD,

THE distress of Ireland---and let it not surprise your Excellency---must soon excite the general attention. The disorder of England, like the plague, is become infectious.---Even the performing quarantine will be found ineffectual to remove it.---There is a certain something peculiar in this disease that requires a very forcible expedient: And, it may be, that the King's-Evil, however stubborn in its nature, may be considered as the more bearable and consolatory of the two. It requires no great skill to penetrate into the nature of this disorder; and yet it is surprising how the ministry affect to be innocent of the cause: You, my Lord, excepted in the list---an innocent indeed! It was easy to guess at their affection, and your innocuous disposition, when, like vultures, they fed on the vitals, the bestowing powers of the demi-sovereign. They stript you of your plumage, and left you only the simple reflection of a shadow.---I speak now, and I speak plainly---of your impotence in office. I wish you not to mistake me. The hungry Justice, the inferior Magistrates will support their dignity. They have a certain right---they appoint, and they remove. The constitution hath invested them with this power; but no constitution, I beg pardon, no minister, it seems, hath favoured you. The wisdom of his Majesty's Counsellors, be assured, my Lord, was sufficient to fix their favours nearer home.---It is enough to assert the consultation of the Earl of Bute (for where this gentleman is consulted the nation must suffer) and it will suffice to say, that through his interest alone you became the dupe of power. The Ministry were anxious for the event---it was impossible to deny them satisfaction.

The Irish nation have since beheld you in the meridian of your power. Like the emblem of a modern Courtier you have shone with a false light; and it is amazing with what avidity you have embraced the measures of your honoured and beloved patron. You was no longer the free agent. Previous to your appointment it was evident that all power had been taken from you. The hearts of the people, with your annual income, were all you had to expect. Could you have kept the former, you might have been happy. But you was doomed to disgrace. You immediately became inspired with the true courtly principles of despotism and tyranny. In your new station, it was your wish to be singular, and your pride to be distinguished. Your lust for honour and reputation---and it is very unfortunate---has, from its first glimpse, been damned either by cowardice or interest. It is confessed you have some abilities, and that those abilities have been cramped by corruption. How great the fall of merit!---But it is more than probable that you were forced into measures; and it may be urged, That Lord Townshend was the only man who would accept the title of General Governor on the terms proposed. It may be so. But, if that be granted, what satisfaction, my Lord, could you expect? I argue now in a rational manner. Even his Majesty might as reasonably be said to possess the hearts, and expect the eclat of his people, by following the advice of his iniquitous court, as you to derive, on such terms, either fame, honour, or popularity. But both the K---, and his good representative---indeed I am sorry to observe it---are lost in the labyrinth of ministerial iniquity. The weakness of the one naturally implies a want of strength in the other.

My Lord, it is scarcely possible that I should be mistaken in this conjecture; at least if I do mistake, it is with some degree of credit; the voice of the people in two kingdoms join me. [I designedly omit the northern clime.] And I am informed the Irish begin to see and understand the political compass; they are sensible that the bankrupt state of their Treasury can only be equalled by that of our own. The mode of administration here and there is the same. Oppression creeps in with every measure. The ghost of power is the universal phantom of state. Promises are as religiously broken by the Lord Lieutenant, as they are by the Duke of Grafton, or, if you please, the K---. But reiterated insults seldom go unpunished. And though our ministry imagine themselves safe at a distance, yet you, my Lord, may feel the vengeance of the people. Distress and poverty have many hands. A wise man would move with peculiar heed, and step forward with the greatest caution. The time is drawing near when some minister must be offered up a public sacrifice. I advise you, my Lord, to beware. You have made yourself disgustful to your dearest friends, and I am in doubt whether you are not the Judas of Ireland. You have eaten of the political sop, betrayed your sovereign, sacrificed your dependants, and oppressed the people. Other pens have delineated the particular home transactions of your Excellency with more precision than I am able at this distance. I only know the mode of your appointment, the manner you have misrepresented the state of affairs in Ireland, and the situation you are in at this moment; and believe me, my Lord, it is sufficiently critical. A judgment in this case is easily formed. When the King is misled by his favourite, and the favourite himself becomes unhappy, his creatures must feel, if not for others, for themselves. It is as impossible for the first minister of state to be tranquil and easy, with the vengeance of a free people staring him in the face, as it is for your Lordship to be convinced of your error. I wish conviction may not come too late. It is notorious, that the men who were anxious for your appointment, were ever anxious for the destruction of this nation. It is of little importance to the public who are originally the men most active in the dirty business, provided those men are known who do the mischief. Partiality will be out of the case where a whole people try the offence. A few may mistake; but when the general eye is open, when the balance is once tried, justice must follow. Your worthy secretary too, Sir George Macartney, no doubt has his feelings. Led into that office by the same corrupt influence with your Excellency, he remains the stedfast slave of power. But it is probable your interest in Ireland may clash. The one may assume on the ground of title; the other on that of power. The secretary may be superior. But I speak this with diffidence. I conjecture from mere probability. He is the son-in-law of Lord Bute, your Excellency only his nominal agent. There is some difference; and, if we may reason on the point, we must decide in favour of the former. My Lord, it would be unpardonable in me, and inconsistent with a man of my professed principles, to be found guilty of deception. Hitherto I have spoken with freedom; and I wish, out of compassion to your Excellency, to inform you of the treachery of your professed friends. The truth may be unpalatable. To shun the path of infamy and wretchedness may give you pain. But I wish to inform and advise. Your Lordship is not the man they wish to continue as Chief Governor of Ireland. How unfortunate it is that the wretched, whom they have duped into a compliance with their measures, should thus be rewarded! But, indeed, my Lord, it is not foreign from their first design. You unhappily catched at the bait; you swallowed the delicious flavoured morsel, and now you must feel the effect. To penetrate into the design of our ministry, on this side the water, would be difficult. Yet it is certain, that another slave, at least another Lord Lieutenant, is now wanting. Bad men, when they would maintain a bad cause, need great assistance; and bad must their cause be, when among all our wicked, needy, prostituted junto, not one of them will accept the prize on your terms!

How your Excellency will maintain your post, with safety to yourself, in your present situation, cannot be imagined. Will your Lordship face the meeting of parliament? Will you venture to ask the needful supplies? In the midst of this dilemma these must be raised; and yet how great, how stubborn is the opposition? The storm gathers blackness as we approach. The great offence committed against that parliament, through your side, will not be forgot. Indeed, so melancholy is your case, were it possible for me to pity you, after all your delusion, could I forget your crimes, and set aside the common interest of my fellow-subjects, here I could open my heart,---here I could bestow my compassion. But you sinned with your eyes open. Conviction spread itself through every base and wicked proposal, and you wilfully swam against the stream. Your Excellency---and I may venture to engage it---will find the Irish not totally lost to interest, consequence, and liberty, however little you may be supposed to have left them. The sparks of resentment will kindle; and it will be happy for you, if they kindle not to your destruction. Rouse then in time from your insensibility; and, while it is in your power, resent the usage you have so basely received. For once assume the spirit of a man, even if you have it not. Apologize for your past conduct; and endeavour to remove the just prejudices of the Irish against you, by frankly acknowledging your errors. You will not have time, in your present capacity, to convince them by your actions. Prepare for the hour of the most severe trial, should you be so unhappy as to meet an incensed majority. I mention this, because it may probably be the case. The power of your adored friends will decrease in proportion to the enormity of their offences, and it will be political in you to be prepared. While others are endeavouring to prostitute their talents to the worst of purposes; while the first, and the most wicked men in the state, are racking their tortured senses to deceive the King, be it your business, my Lord, to retire and reform. No longer suffer yourself to be their tool; but, with a virtuous fortitude resolve against every measure distressing to the subject; and, when once resolved, be firm. This will raise you in the esteem of every lover of his country. The other must bring you to disgrace, infamy, and destruction.

JUNIUS.

To the Conductors of the Hibernian Journal, Meath-street, Dublin.

LONDON, August 26.

It is now asserted, that the Author of Junius is a Barrister of the Middle Temple, nearly allied to a certain noble Earl, and that the manner of the discovery will shortly be made public.

The plan of a new town which is to be settled on the junction of Ohio, at present engages the attention of many persons of distinction; Lord Eglington is to be the director, as his Lordship is possessed of vast tracts of land in those parts. Several families are ready to embark, and those not of the meaner kind. It is to be formed into a regular government. It is expected it will be as flourishing a city as any in those parts. Several persons of rank are making interest already for posts on this proposed establishment for their dependants.

August 27. It is talked upon Change, that the leaders of the minority have lately received some letters from Boston, New-York, &c. containing all the circumstances of some very important matters, which are to be the subject of consideration in the course of the next Session of Parliament.

August 28. Advices are received of a dangerous insurrection at Naples, and that a great Body of Troops have been sent from Spain to quell the Rioters, many of whom are of the first Quality.

One of the King's Messengers, we are assured, with proper Attendants, is gone into Scotland, in Quest of some capital Offenders, and another is dispatched into the West; and there is great Reason to believe, that some of the Persons concerned in the dreadful Fire at Portsmouth, are of the former Nation.

August 29. The reason of the French Ambassador's sudden departure was to attend a trial at Paris, on account of a considerable legacy left him, at which he is obliged to be present.

It may be depended on, that the Spanish Court has lately advanced the French Monarchy a loan of 3,000,000 l. sterling, at a low interest, on some fresh bargain made between the two Crowns.

It is said that the French have no less than 80 men of war now in the ports of Brest and Toulon, most of which are large ships, and could be in readiness on the shortest notice.

It is said the person in custody on suspicion of setting Portsmouth dock-yard on fire, has declared, that he and others were hired by the French to do it; that a certain Romish priest, well known about Portsmouth, was the principal contriver; and that a French frigate lay off Portsmouth harbour, ready to receive him and the other persons concerned in it. He was visited yesterday by many persons of note, and several foreigners, who wanted to converse with him privately, which the keeper refused.

The public may be assured, that Lord Camden has declared, that he never more will accept the Seals.

It is asserted that a certain Board has given orders for a number of press-warrants to be printed, in order to impress seamen into his Majesty's service.

Yesterday Captain MARQUIS arrived here from Glasgow, which Place he left the 20th of September, by whom we have the following fresh Advices, viz.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 17.

THE 16th inst. the brother to the Grand Vizir set out from hence for the army. He is said to be charged by the Grand Signor to repair to Field Marshal Count Romanzow with articles of peace. What has given rise to this report is, that the day of his departure, just before he set out, a grand council was held in presence of the Sultan, to consider of a proposition of that monarch, whether it would not be more expedient to conclude a peace with the Russians, without the mediation of any power, as many inconveniences might arise from such mediation to this empire.

"We are assured that only a part of the army, under the command of the Pachas of Damascus and Aleppo, hath been defeated by that of Ali Bey, and that the remaining part being reinforced by a Prince of the Druses, who inhabit the mountains of Libanon, has gained a compleat victory over the usurper, and besides taking a considerable booty, the city of Damascus hath surrendered to the conquerors.

Temeswaer, July 22. Letters from Constantinople advise, that they hourly expected the arrival of M. Czarni, Marshal of the Confederacy of Cracow, whose business is said to be to supplicate the Porte, in the name of all the Confederates of Poland, that they may be comprehended in the treaty of peace now under consideration between the Porte and Russia.

Warsaw, August 10. A certain adventurer, named Cossakowski, after having done great mischief in Lithuania, is gone into Courland, where he hath already plundered several villages. The Dissidents have suffered much on this occasion. 'Tis added, that the Malecontents of Courland have advanced him 26,000 rix-dollars, to enable him to march to Mittau, in order to depose the Grand Duke.

We have accounts from Count Romanzow's army, that on the 14th of July 25,000 Turks passed the Danube near Giurgevo, under the Bashaw of Silistria, but that they were so well received by the Russians, that hardly 3000 repassed it.

Warsaw, Aug. 12. We have received certain accounts that the whole Crimea is now in the power of the Russians, and that they have already sent troops from thence over the canal of Caffa to Asia to take Cuban.

Frontiers of Poland, Aug. 13. The mail from Warsaw of the 10th instant is not yet arrived, but a letter from Choczim, dated July 18, imports, that the Russians had again rendered themselves masters of Giurgevo, and the particulars of that conquest were hourly expected.

Breslau, Aug. 12. The Russians have opened the campaign in Georgia. Prince Salamon, who has joined them, has laid siege to the castle on the island of Coppa, which makes a most vigorous defence. According to some advices the Regent of Persia has assembled an army under the walls of Tauris, with intent to watch the motions of the Georgians.

The last accounts from Poland mention, that the Empress of Russia has sent a courier to Berlin, to notify to his Prussian Majesty, that she has rejected seven of the preliminary articles which were sent by the Porte, and that she will not agree to any cessation of arms during the negociation.

Venice, Aug. 4. It is reported here as a truth, that the grand Russian army, commanded by General Romanzow, hath gained a compleat victory over that of the Grand Vizir, that the latter has abandoned his camp, and that several Bashaws have been taken prisoners.

Venice, Aug. 10. We are informed that the Russian fleet in the Black Sea has taken, burnt and sunk, a convoy of 150 Turkish vessels, which were carrying troops and provisions to different places. It is confirmed that the grand Russian army intends to pass the Danube, in order to march towards Salonica, and, in conjunction with the Russian fleet, to approach Constantinople, without taking the route of the Dardanelles.

LONDON, September 2.

We hear that it is intended, by a patriotic commoner, at the opening of the parliament, to make a motion for annihilating most of the military governments in England, which will be a prodigious saving to the nation, as great salaries are annexed to most of them, and enjoyed by persons, who, so far from residing there, seldom or ever see the inside of the garrisons.

The celebrated Mr. Banks will shortly make another voyage to St. George Island, in the South Seas; and it is said, that government will allow him three ships, with men, arms and provisions, in order to plant and settle a colony there.

By a letter from Petersburgh, we hear, that fifteen caravans belonging to Russia, were stopped and robbed, on their return from China, in the kingdom of Tibbet, and that the Empress had demanded satisfaction of that court.

Orders are said to be sent to Ireland for all the regiments on that establishment to be made up to their full complement of men, five private men and a Serjeant are to be added to each company.

The French Court are said to have lessened their forces by land only, in order to be the more formidable at sea.

Some letters from Constantinople mention, that every thing had the appearance of an approaching peace with the Russians.

Sept. 5. Thursday the Lord Mayor entertained ------ Sutton, Esq; Secretary to the Earl of Rochford, at the Mansion-house; some time after dinner, the man who is confined in a spunging-house in Wood-street, and has made some discoveries relative to the fire in the dock-yard, at Portsmouth, was sent for and examined before his Lordship, Aldermen Trecothick and Kennet. It was expected to be late before the examination would be finished. It was reported the man had signified that he expects 600 l. on giving full evidence in the affair.---The whole depositions have been sent to the Secretaries of State.

Extract of a letter from the Hague, August 30.

"According to the last letters from Vienna, that Court expects in a few days the final answer of the Court of Petersburgh to the ultimatum sent thither by the former, upon the important subject of a peace between Russia and the Ottoman Porte. Though the terms of this ultimatum are not precisely known, it is thought that the Court of Vienna doth not insist upon Crimea being declared as an independent country; but requires that the Principalities of Moldavia and Walachia be given to a neutral Prince, who may equally espouse the interests of both the Imperial Courts."

Sept. 7. The examination of the person on Thursday night, relative to the fire in Portsmouth Dock-yard, before the Lord Mayor, Aldermen Trecothick and Kennet, at which was present the Secretary to the Earl of Rochford, lasted a considerable time, but the man made no discoveries of any consequence; he asserted, that he was blindfolded, and led to the place by a certain Captain, whom he could produce, if he was sent to Portsmouth: He was told, that if he had any discoveries to make, by which the affair could be brought to light, so that the persons concerned might be convicted thereof, he should not only be admitted as evidence, but have all his debts paid, which, it is said, amount to near 1000 l. He replied that he expected something more; but he was informed that his request could not then be positively granted. He gave no very satisfactory answers to any of the questions asked him; upon which the Lord Mayor ordered him into another room, with the Officer in whose custody he was, till his Lordship, and the gentlemen abovementioned, had consulted how they should proceed in the business.

In the mean time he was allowed some wine in the room to which he was sent, where he drank plentifully, and smoaked his pipe, till ten o'clock at night; by which time every thing being settled with regard to the debt he was arrested for, and also what he had contracted in the spunging-house for eating, drinking, &c. which score it is said amounted to about 20 l. a Messenger with his assistants came and took him from the Mansion-house, and set off immediately with him for Portsmouth, to see if he can make the discoveries there which he has asserted he can.

A bold and spirited remonstrance, it is said, is preparing for the approbation of the Livery on Michaelmas-day next; and, if it should be approved, Mr. Wilkes is determined to go up to St. James's, to know his Majesty's pleasure when he will receive it.

The prospect of an East-India war is so strong, that Hyder Ali has lodged 1,500,000 pagodas with a merchant at Fort St. George, to purchase the assistance of the English Company.

Extract of a letter from Leghorn, August 14.

"We have received here, by letters from Aleppo, dated June 11, a confirmation that Ali Bey, the new Sultan of Egypt, after having defeated, in the environs of Damas, 5 Turkish Pachas, and their troops, made himself master of that city. The last advices from Constantinople import, that the news of the above defeat had occasioned a general consternation; and that the Porte is very desirous of making peace with the Russians, in order to attack the usurper the more effectually."

Extract of a letter from Venice, August 15.

"According to advices from Macedonia, the Russians block up the passage of the Dardanelles in such a manner, that no ship can pass or repass without being visited; so that the four gallots which the Captain Pacha had sent to the Archipelago, to raise part of the tributes, are given over for lost."

Extract of a letter from Acre, in Syria, June 6.

"A courier arrived here this morning from Ali Bey's army, to bring the Chiek Daher advice of the Defeat of the Turkish army, which defended Damascus, consisting by some accounts of 11,000 men, and by others of 24,000. The three Pachas who commanded them, sallied out in the morning of the 4th inst. Ali Bey's troops immediately attacked them sabre in hand, and routed the whole army, after a feeble resistance. The Pacha of Tripoli was thrown from his horse by a mortal wound he received in his thigh. This account was sent by Ali Daher to the Chiek Daher his father, from the field of battle. He adds, that the victorious army is preparing to enter Damascus: This town lies open, and its castle, which was built by the Cailiffs, is not able to hold out long."

GLASGOW, September 12.

Extract of a letter from London, September 9.

"Advices from Warsaw by this day's mail, inform that the Russians are in actual possession of all the fortresses and ports belonging to the Crimea, and of the island of Taman. The Sultan Selim Guery hath likewise submitted to the Empire of Russia, and hath sent two of his sons with 48 deputies from Tartary to Petersburgh, to take the oaths, and to do homage to her Imperial Majesty. This intelligence is so authentic, that even the Confederates do not doubt it.

"Letters from Petersburgh of the 9th ult. give an account, that Lieutenant General Tottleben has lately arrived there from Asia, and has been most graciously received by her Imperial Majesty. This General has, in the space of two campaigns, and with a small army, not only subjected to the Empire of Russia, the kingdom of Georgia, Mingrelia, and Ghuria, but taken possession of almost all the Ottoman fortresses, even to Travesund, ravaged the country, and carried off large quantities of artillery.

"A new treaty of guarantee is just concluded between the Courts of Berlin and Petersburgh.

"The man on his examination last night, before the Lord Mayor, said, that if he was at Portsmouth, he could produce the person who employed him with some others, to set the Dock-yard on fire, but would make no further discovery. About 10 o'clock, a messenger with assistants took him from the Mansion-house for Portsmouth.

"An exact copy of Mr. Dudley's examination before the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, concerning the cause of the late dreadful fire at Portsmouth dock-yard, has been sent from the Mansion-house to the Lords of the Admiralty."

NEWBERN (North-Carolina) August 30.

The last words and dying speech of BENJAMIN MIRRELL, executed at Hillsborough.

I Stand here exposed to the world as a criminal, my life will soon be a change; God is my comforter and supporter; I am condemned to die for opposing government; all you that are here present, take warning by my miserable end, when I shall be hung up as a spectacle before you. My first seducers were Hunter and Galaspie; they had often solicited me, told me a settlement was only contended for, with regard to public officers, who, they ſaid, had oppreſſed the people, and that unleſs theſe meaſures were taken, there could be no remedy or redreſs hereafter.

Thus they preſſed me on by aſſuring me, the diſputes (as they called them) then exiſting, might be ſettled without ſhedding of blood. I conſidered this unhappy affair, and thought poſſibly the contentions in the country might be brought to ſome determination without injury to any; and in this mind I joined the regulation. After I had liſted under the banner of the regulators, I was ever after preſſed to be made a leading man amongſt them, and was one with the number who oppoſed Colonel Waddell with his troops; informations prevailing, the Governor was on his march to lay waſte this country, and deſtroy its inhabitants; informations which I now find to be falſe, and propagated to ſcreen old offenders from juſtice.

As to my private life, I do not know of any particular charge againſt me; I received, by the grace of God, a change fifteen years ago, but have, ſince that time, been a backſlider; yet providence, in whom is my chief ſecurity, has been pleaſed to give me comfort under thoſe evils in the laſt hour; and although the halter is now round my neck, believe me, I would not change ſtations with any man on the ground. All you who think you ſtand, take heed leſt ye fall.

I would be glad to ſay a few words more before I die; the purport of which is,---in a few moments I ſhall leave behind me a wife and ten children, to a wicked and cenſorious world, and entreat it as a favour, no reflections may be caſt upon them on my account; and if it is poſſible, ſhall eſteem it as a bounty, if you, gentlemen, will petition the Governor, Council, &c. that ſome part of my eſtate may be ſpared to them, it will be an act of mere Charity, though I have forfeited the whole by the laws of God and man. Here he pauſed---

I have ever ſince the day of battle, been thoroughly convinced, I was wrong in oppoſing the laws and government of my country; I was blindly led into the atrocious act by wicked and deſigning men, without provocation and reſentment; but O! it is now too late to call back the bloody intention; the blow is given, and I muſt die for the crime---here he pauſed again----

All you that are here preſent, beware of drunkenneſs, lying, curſing and ſwearing. I could point out ſome inſtances of this kind, but it will avail nothing at preſent, they are regiſtered in heaven.

"We had a cold backward Spring here, and it is ſince the Solſtice that we have had what may be called a warm Day; but the Country now looks well, with the Proſpect of great Plenty. It is, however, the general Opinion, that Britain will not for ſome Years export much Corn, great Part of the arable Land being now incloſed, and turned to Graſs, to nouriſh the immenſe Number of Horſes raiſed for Exportation, there being a Rage in France, and other Parts of Europe, for Engliſh Horſes, that ſeems increaſing every Year."

PROPOSALS for PRINTING by SUBSCRIPTION,
A WEEKLY NEWS-PAPER, INTITULED,
The PENNSYLVANIA PACKET, And GENERAL ADVERTISER.

INSTRUCTION or Amuſement are the points aimed at by Writers of every denomination, in whatever ſphere they move, or whatever rank they hold in the literary world. Under one or other of theſe claſſes, the productions of every Author may be arranged. But as the generality are not at leiſure to make themſelves maſters of any one branch of learning, which can properly be ſtiled a ſcience, much leſs to comprehend the whole body of literature, with all its various revolutions and improvements; the grand object is, to reduce theſe matters into a ſmall compaſs, and to exhibit them to the attention of the Public in as cloſe a view as poſſible. He that ſucceeds in performing this taſk, certainly diſcharges an agreeable, if not a very uſeful, office. It is for this reaſon, perhaps, that the modern News-papers, publiſhed upon the preſent improved plan, meet with more univerſal peruſal than the voluminous works of the laborious learned, though of infinitely ſuperior merit, and unſpeakably higher importance.

With a view of contributing, in one and the ſame effort, to both theſe deſirable ends of KNOWLEDGE and PLEASURE, the Subſcriber requeſts the indulgent attention of the Public in general, and his Friends in particular, while he offers to their candid conſideration the following CONDITIONS.

I. The PENNSYLVANIA PACKET, and GENERAL ADVERTISER, ſhall be printed with elegant Types, properly adapted to the various articles of which it may conſiſt; and on Paper, equal in quality and ſize to any News-paper publiſhed in this city.

II. The freſheſt accounts ſhall be faithfully given of all occurrences, foreign and domeſtic: Theſe ſhall be arranged in ſuch order as to furniſh a clear and comprehenſive view of the preſent intereſts, deſigns, intrigues, and politics of every reſpectable State and Potentate in the world.

III. All Letters, Eſſays, and Miſcellaneous Pieces, ſent to the Publiſher, that may any way tend to diſcoveries in Science, improvement in the Arts, promoting Manufactures, or encouragement of Agriculture, ſhall be thankfully received, and immediately inſerted.

IV. Advertiſements, of a moderate length, will be inſerted at Three Shillings each for one week, and One Shilling for each continuance; thoſe of greater length at ſuch proportionable prices as may be reaſonable.

V. This Paper ſhall be publiſhed every Monday morning early, and delivered to the Subſcribers in town at their reſpective dwellings. The firſt Number ſhall be given gratis, and printed on Monday, the 25th of November next, or ſooner, if ſufficient encouragement ſhould offer.

VI. The Price to Subſcribers will be Ten Shillings per year.

JOHN DUNLAP.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are taken in by the Publiſher, at his Printing-office, in Market-ſtreet, Philadelphia; Mr. Thomas Dundas, Reading; James Wilſon, Eſq; Attorney at Law, Carliſle; Benjamin Noxon, Eſq; Noxonton; James Sterling, Eſq; Burlington; Joſeph Burroughs, Eſq; Salem; Thomas Leaming, Eſq; Cape-May; Mr. Samuel Purviance, Baltimore-Town; Richard Thomas, Eſq; Sheriff, Charles-Town, and William Rumſey, Eſq; Bohemia, Cæcil county, Maryland; Rev. William Dunlap, King & Queen county, Virginia; Mr. Hugh Gaine, Printer, and Meſſieurs Noel and Hazard, Bookſellers, New-York; Mr. Richard Draper, and Meſſieurs Edes and Gill, Printers, Boſton; Mr. Robert Wells, and Mr. Charles Crouch, Printers, Charleſtown, South-Carolina; Meſſieurs Elmand and Walker, Printers, in Bridgetown, Barbades; and by many other Gentlemen, whoſe names will be particularized in our firſt Number.

For BELFAST and GLASGOW,

There are on the ſaid place 100 young thriving apple trees, of the beſt grafted fruit, a good round log houſe, two ſtories high, with a good cellar under it, and a well of excellent water at the door; a new barn, ſtables, &c. It lies convenient to places of public worſhip, and extremely well ſituated for ſtorekeeping or farmers; convenient alſo to mills of all ſorts, &c. The title indiſputable.
